Timothy Gilbert
Week 1: Project and Portfolio

GitHub Repo Link: https://github.com/FullSailTim/Gilbert_Timothy_Portfolio.git
(The link still hasn't been set to private, I sent a message to GitHub already)

This week I have done a lot of research on Gary Vaynerchuk after using him for my assignment. I was able to complete all of the assignments in a timely manner as well as receive a good grading for it because I would spend atleast 10-15 minutes just reading the goal for each task to double check that I did it right. Rafael Garcia and I were on Skype for about 30 minutes while I showed him how to improve his Git skills from the terminal as well as discussion for this assignment because we were both not sure on how to do it. I have already sat down and planned out my schedule for work this next upcoming week and the assignment due dates and marked down on each assignment how much time I want to spend on it and how to give myself an ample amount of time to finish each one.

I think this class really opened my eyes to what needs to be accomplished and on a tighter deadline than the normal Wednesday to Sunday duration that I have experienced. I love the fact that we will be logging and predicting hours because it is something I currently don't do in my workspace that I have wanted to do for a while now. I think I have improved my organization skills as well as time management a bit better because I felt like I was lacking a lot of it before starting this class. I am now giving myself more time ahead of schedule that way I don't start to play video games and other distractions. I've also expanded my network of connections that way I can get outside perspective than my own opinions on assignments and other tasks. I think the next few weeks will show a more organized and "on top of it" Tim.